MUSTANG TRAIL

VOLUME 9 OF
THE MUSTANG

BUILDING A LIFE

Education is a building of life, spiritually, mentally and physically. It can be compared to a physical structure with a foundation, walls, windows, doors and roof. It is a structure in which constant attention must be given for repairs, improvements and additions. The fundamental purpose of Central Arkansas Christian School is to guide young people in building their daily lives.

The foundation upon which a structure is built is the most important element. The founders of CAC designed the school to be built upon the solid foundation of God's Word. Our Board of Directors are dedicated to the principle of a quality education in a Christian environment. They have set forth a plan whereby every student would begin each school day with a chapel service and also receive daily Bible instruction.

Our administration has built upon the foundation, walls of a well rounded curriculum for each grade with basic attention given to reading, writing and arithmetic. Guidance and counseling to teachers, parents and students enclose the structure of the walls.

The faculty represents the roof over the students heads, the protective covering which leads and instructs each student. Their lives serve as examples to the precious young people being moulded in their hands.

Our students are the windows of our building which allow the warm sun to cheer us and pure, clean air to refresh us. At time we must use shades or blinds to prevent too much sunlight from hindering our vision and the drapes or curtains we put around our windows are the beautiful finishing touches.

The extra curricular activities are the varied color hues of paint we use for the outside of our structure. By the colors used on the exterior of our building through our different extra curricular activities we portray to the community the warmth, found in our building, the respect for the individual and for authority and our love for each other and for our God.

The door to our building is a door of interest, concern and communication. By opening it we allow the community to come in and that in turn allows us to go out into the world to help others build a better life.

So this year the Mustang Journalism Staff proudly dedicates the 1981-82 Mustang to those who started Central Arkansas Christian.

G. Randle, P. Mitchell, and P. Miller were even working for CAC in its first year of operation.

The first sport that CAC had was track with the 1972-73 team.

Mrs. Murray was CAC's first principal, and seniors Clark Falwell and Joanna Woodson attended CAC for the first year.

CAC's first Board of Directors consisted of Doug Freeman, Lynn Lloyd, Jack McGee, Coy Dean, James Johnston, and Gene Word.

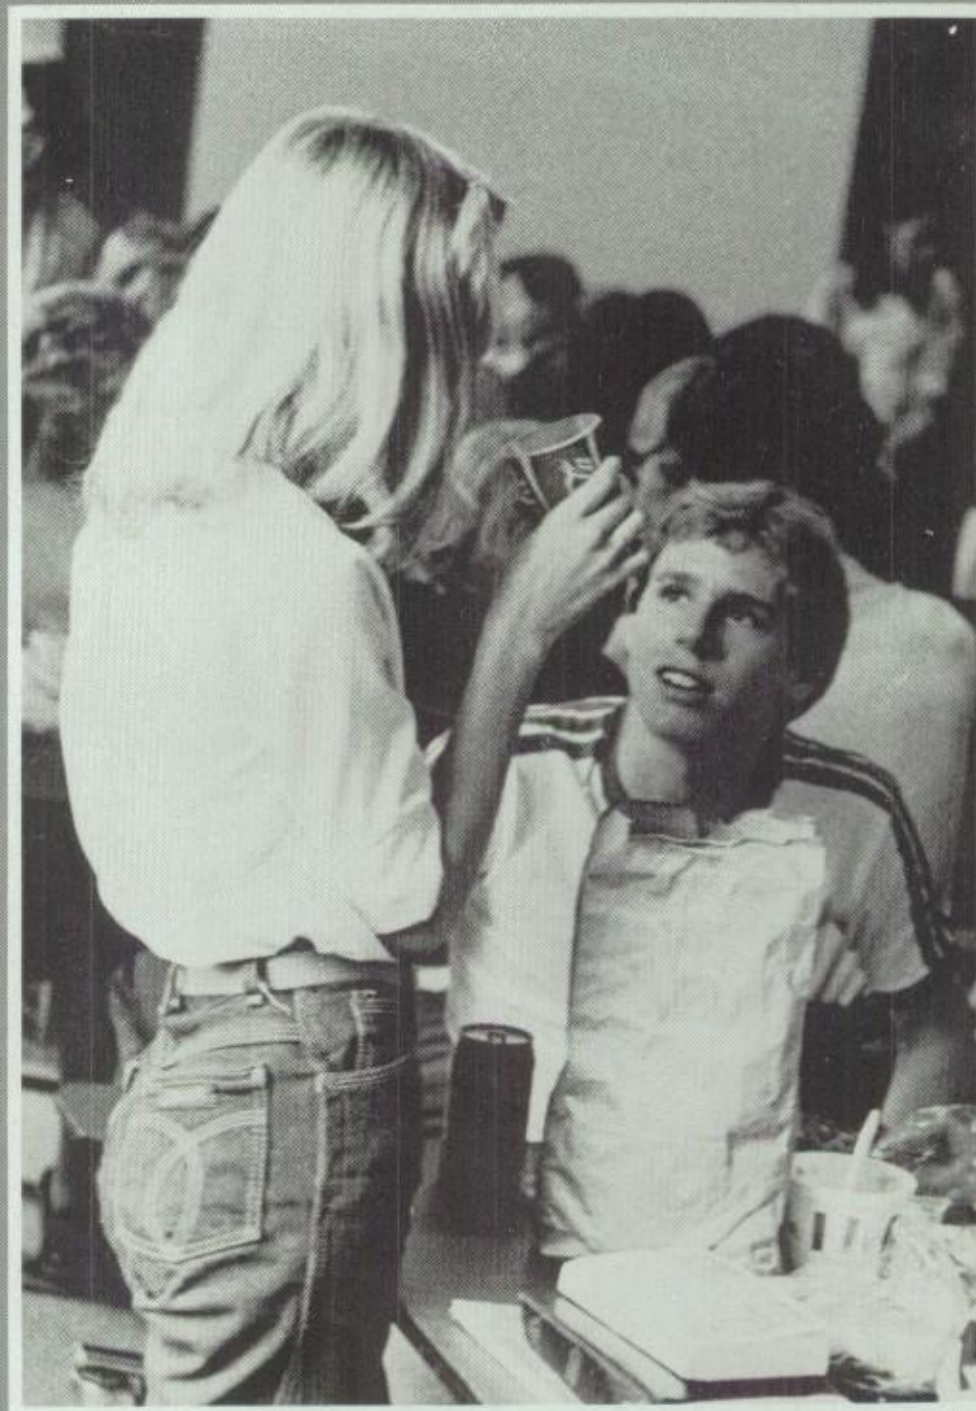

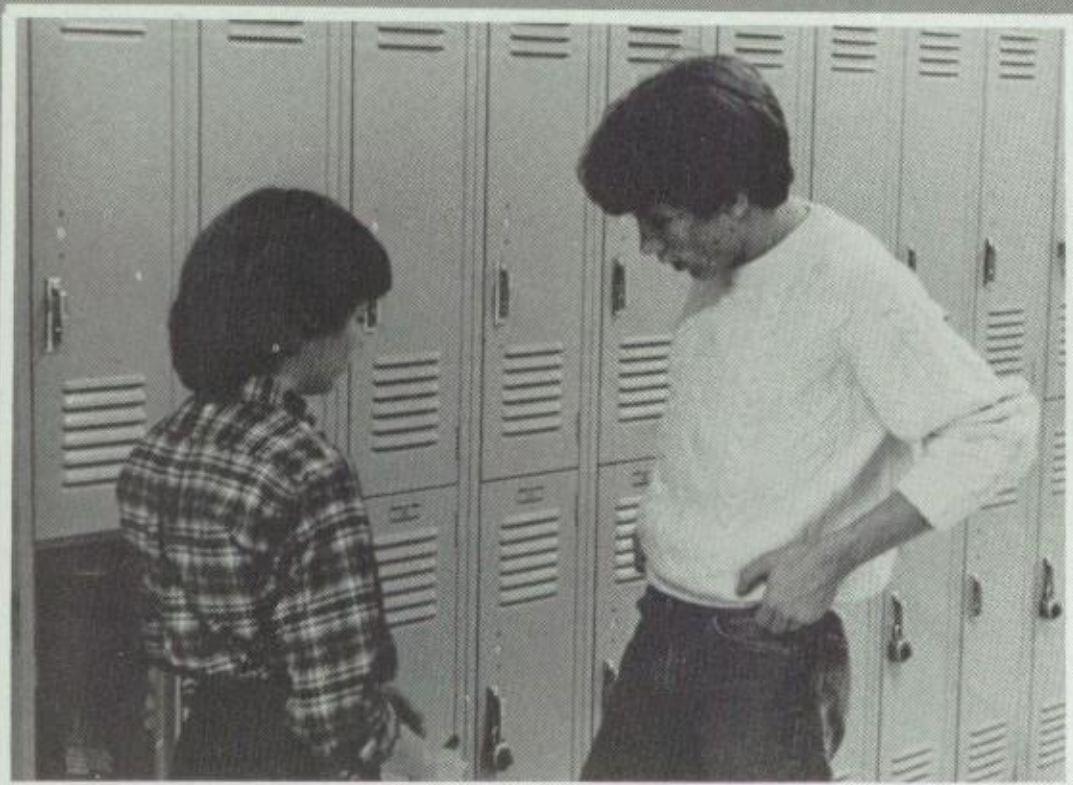

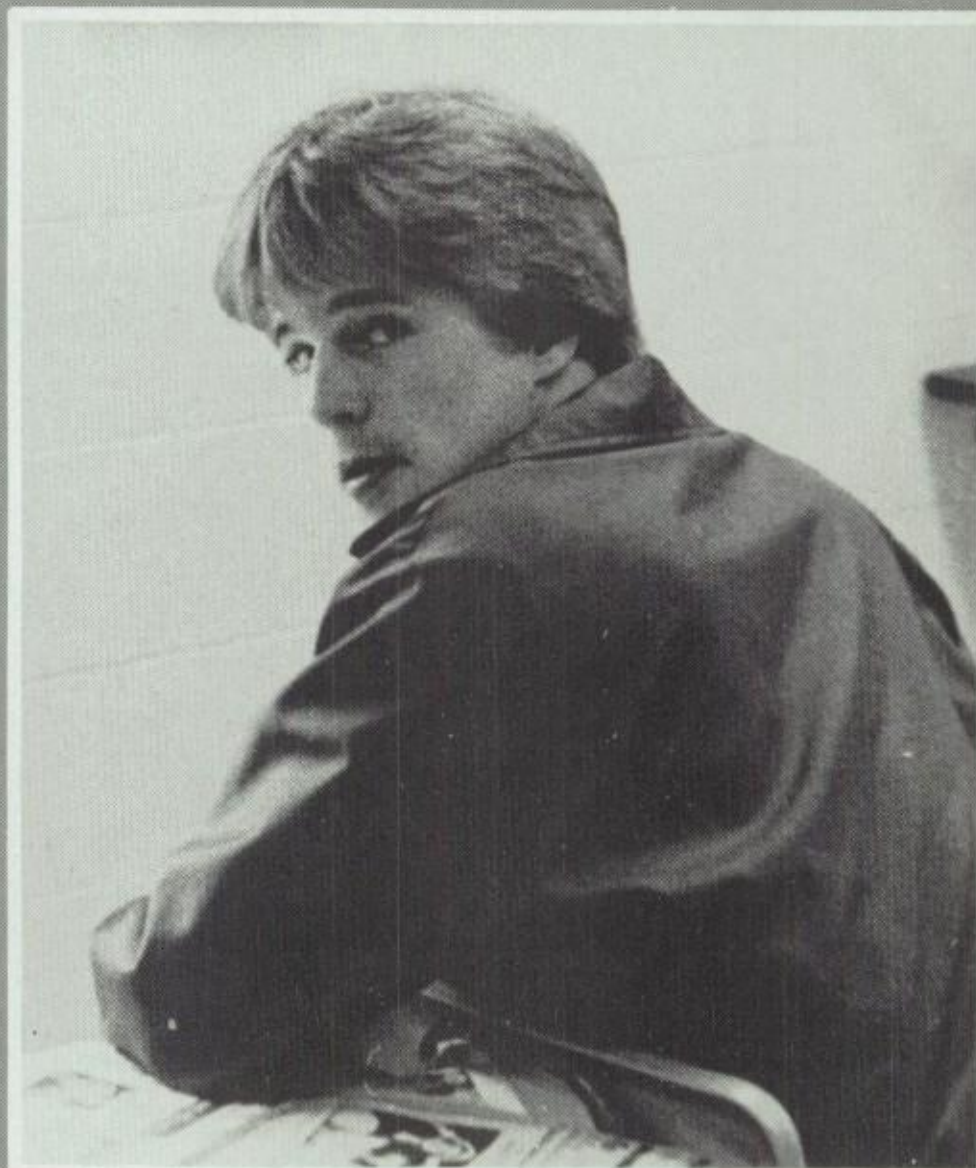

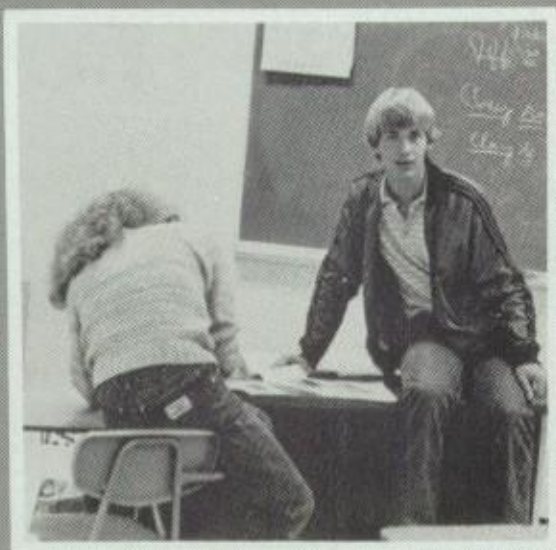

Teacher Of The Year

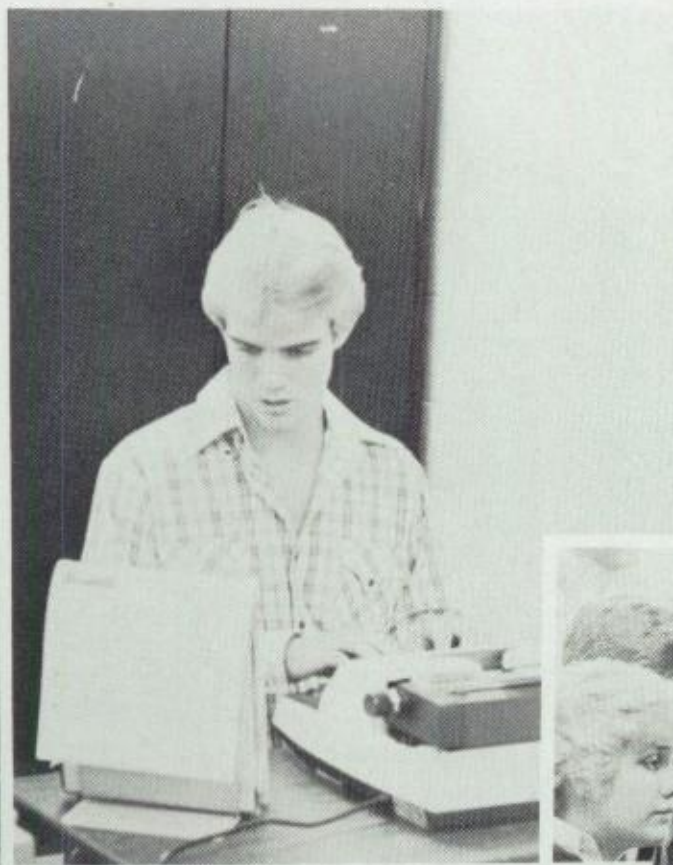

We seldom notice the rare jewels among all the ordinary stones. A jewel that gleams radiantly when polished, and whose value is tremendous. The 1981-82 journalism staff recognizes that all our faculty and staff members are such jewels, but we would like to pay tribute to one person who shines just a little bit more.

Mrs. Louise Stuart, now in her third year of service to CAC, is one of our most treasured possessions. She is never too busy to lend a helping hand or console a bewildered student, and her ability to bring humor into every day never falters. Her unfailing devotion to her students is evident in every action, from the sleepless nights spent baking cookies to her "Mama Cass" portrayal on Dress-Up Day. Words could never adequately describe all that Mrs. Stuart goes through, puts up with or does for her students, so we'll just have to settle for three simple words and hope she understands:

We love you.

STUDENT LIFE

SIGNS OF TIME

1981-82 was a very exciting year for the U.S.A. Several events occurred during this time, ranging from the launching of the space shuttle to the assassination attempt of President Ronald Reagan.

From the moment it leapt into the sky from Cape Canaveral to its dramatic dead-stick landing in the Mojave Desert 54 hours and 36 orbits of the earth later, the space-shuttle Columbia performed flawlessly. In the prospect, it opened the door to a new era in which the exploitation of space may well outstrip its exploration; an era of orbiting factories, vast communications arrays and exotic space weapons. Commander John Young's shuttle copilot, Navy Capt. Robert Crippen, neatly summed up the meaning of Columbia's flight: "We are really in the space business to stay."

Also in space during this time was the Voyager II, who sent back photos of the planet Saturn, where we discovered more than ever about it.

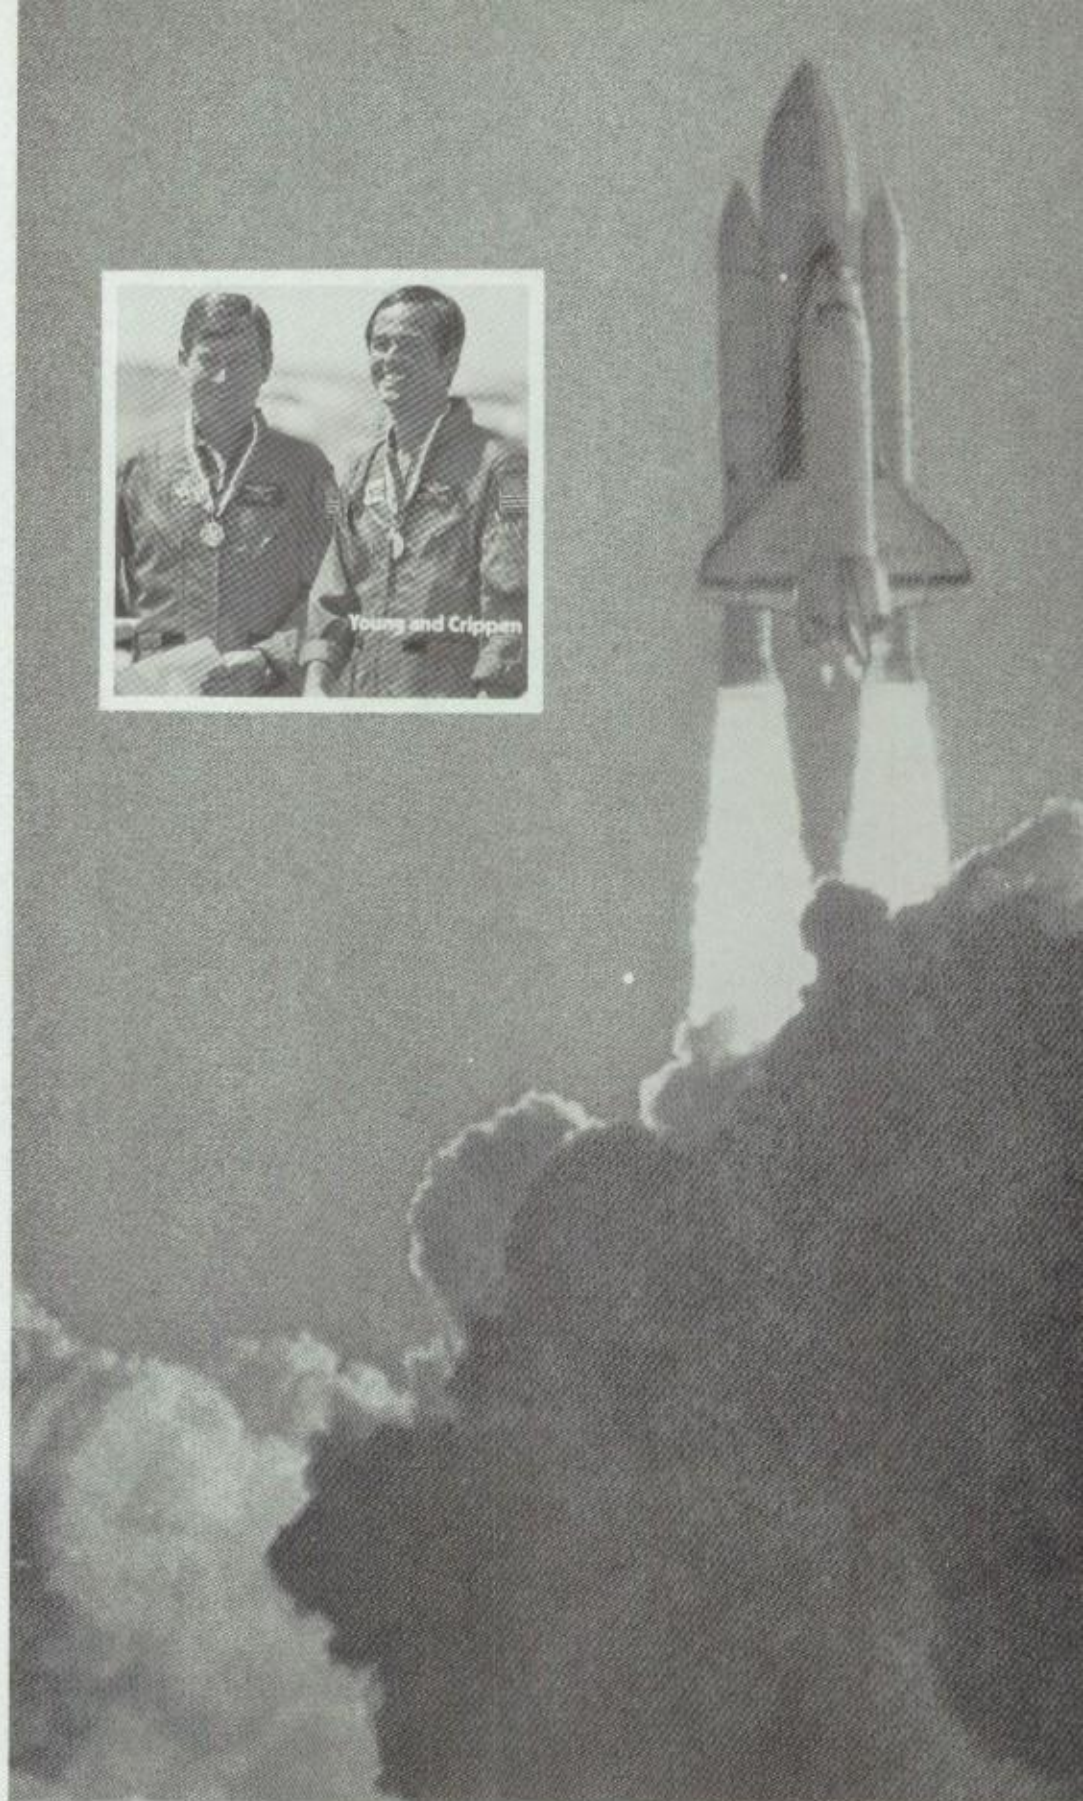

But back on earth several other events were occurring, such as Sandra O'Connor being appointed to the Supreme Court by the President.

On July 29, 1981, one of the most unique weddings took place. It was the Royal Wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana.

Several tragic close calls occurred; it was an American nightmare — a deranged loner named John W. Hinckley, Jr. pumped a fusillade of explosive bullets into the President, his press secretary Jim Brady, and two law enforcement officers. Ronald Reagan, 70 years old and 70 days into his Presidency, walked through a serious chest wound with extraordinary bounce and grit. Jim Brady suffered a serious head wound, and the omens for the others were good. Another famous man was shot later during this period — a man the whole world knows — the pope. But unfortunately some shootings didn't turn out so well, such as the assassination of John Lennon, a former singer for the "Beatles," and of Egyptian President, Anwar Sadat.

In the U.S. several groups were all on the warpath for money. The baseball teams had their longest strike yet in history, leaving the fans in shock for 50 days. Also, the air-controllers left several people up in the clouds while they asked for more than $33,000 a year.

In sports John McEnroe stopped Borg from winning his fifth straight Wimbledon victory. McEnroe is the champ you love to hate.

Good Ol' Summer Days

Summer Days

It's still a shock for some people when the alarm clock rings at 6 a.m. They're still expecting to arise at about the same time the sun hits its midmorning peak. (In fact, one of the main topics of conversation was the fact that the sun is actually up by eight in the morning). Luckily for them, it won't be long until they can again take up their late-sleeping regimen. Summer vacation will begin in just a few days, and despite the fact that for many of you your major memory will be your bed, we would like to honor some CAC students who used their summer free time to great advantage.

Girl's state and Boy's State: an excellent opportunity for high school students to get some first-hand experience in government. Four students represented CAC this year: Jeff Branch, Kendall Hewitt, Angela Fletcher, and Kim Wallis. CAC had the great honor of having one of its students, Kendall Hewitt, named lieutenant-governor of the state of Arkansas.

Many CAC students attended various camps over the summer to help improve their abilities. Some of the camps attended were journalism, Student Council, cheerleading, drill team, and basketball. CAC's Sr. High cheerleaders won the Award of Excellency at SAU.

Despite all of the other activities, the most common summertime activity seemed to be vacations. Many students traveled with their families, visiting such exotic places as Hawaii and Germany, as well as the usual vacation trips. Five CAC students toured Europe with Miss Lee as chaperone.

Summertime activities were just another way CAC students showed their versatility. It just goes to prove that Mustangs are very talented people with a wide range of abilities.

3 Karen likes to munch down while she's in Germany. 4 Scott and Jill enjoy their vacation in Hawaii.

Just for the Fun of It

What does a Mustang do in his spare time? Cruise, hunt, bike, swim, have fun? CAC students did these and a lot more as they went about "doing their own thing."

Some chose pastimes that involved years of training and hours and hours of practice and even served as training for possible future careers. Sophomore Donna Dickson has been ice skating for one-and-a-half years and spends 25 to 30 hours a week practicing.

Donna is seriously thinking of a career in ice skating and has enjoyed it for a long time, and the time she spends skating is one of her favorite times.

Others picked hobbies "just for the fun of it." Senior Kendall Hewitt really couldn't decide whether or not backpacking or hunting was his favorite hobby. So we'll just consider it a tie.

Shelli Hallsell, a bowling addict, found it hard to give a reason for her hobby. It's just a fun, simple way to pass time. It's something that anyone can do, and I just enjoy it."

Students had individual reasons for choosing a particular hobby, but most agree with Senior Keith Willson that the time they spent was well worth the effort.

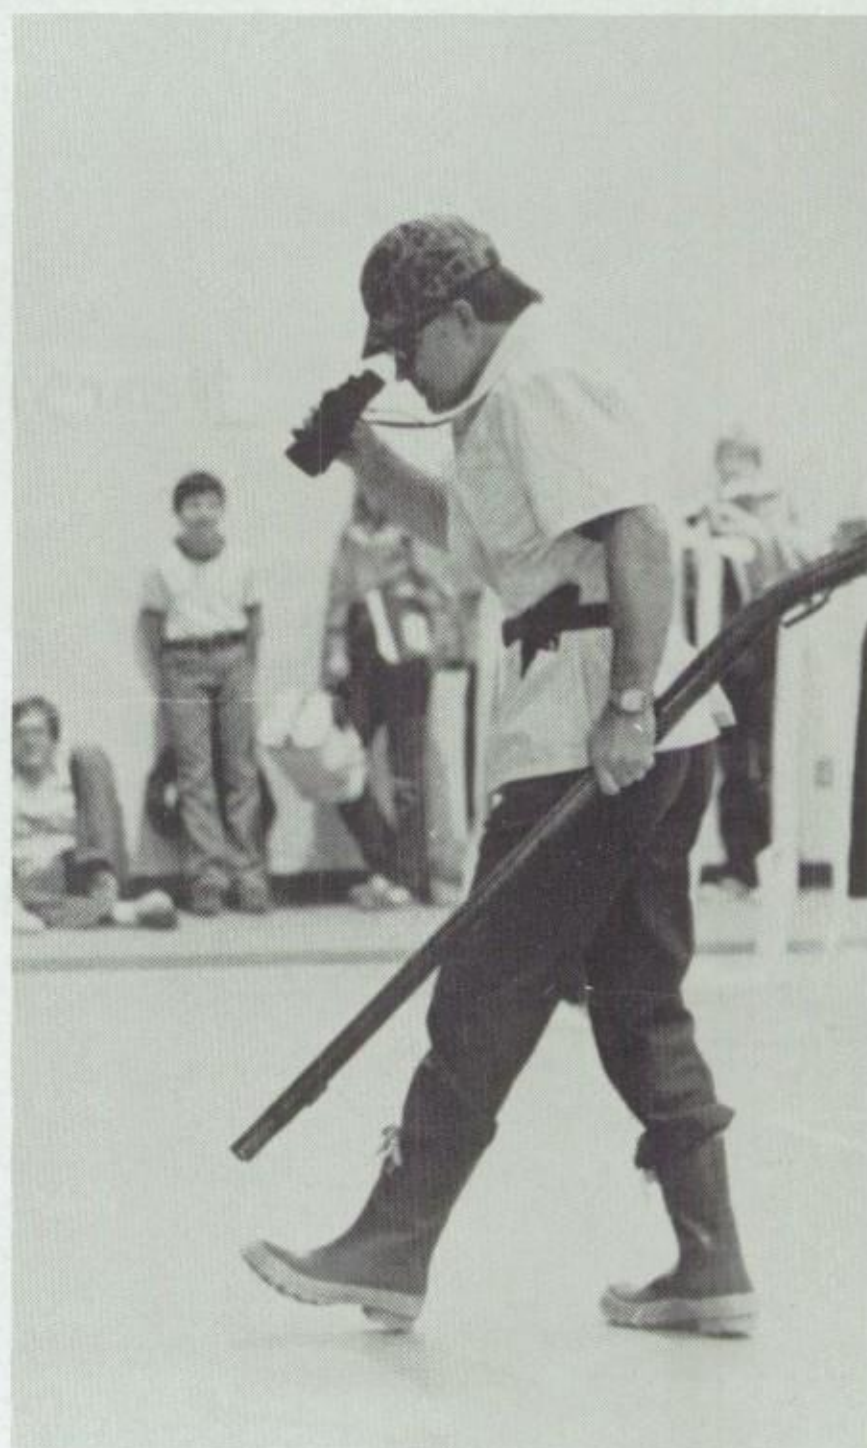

HOBBIES

CAC'S homecoming was held on October 30. Although there was a great deal of anticipation about the game, most of the interest was focused on the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Kim Tatom, Kim Wallis, and Joanna Woodson were the senior candidates for the honor, and Joanna Woodson was crowned queen.

Despite the fact that the Mustangs suffered a loss in the game, the spirit of the later-evening festivities was not affected. The Junior class sponsored a lock-in, which featured appearances by such CAC notables as Detour, the Blues Brothers, and Mr. Killgore.

C.A.C. teachers and staff are often responsible for promoting school spirit.

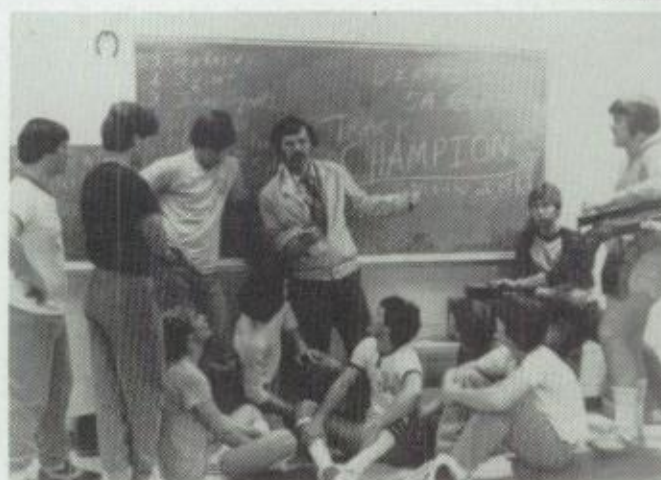

C.A.C. students are partially responsible for the success of our athletic teams. Without the support and spirit that they bring to games our teams would not have been as successful.

"Southern Magic", a drama department production, showed their true spirit by practicing long, hard hours to present an assortment of American songs.

Besides encouraging his track and football teams, Coach Siegel, as well as the other Bible teachers, were responsible for a spiritual renewal at C.A.C.

Sgt. Steven Kirtley, ex-Iranian hostage, spoke to C.A.C. students about the hardships he suffered while a prisoner.

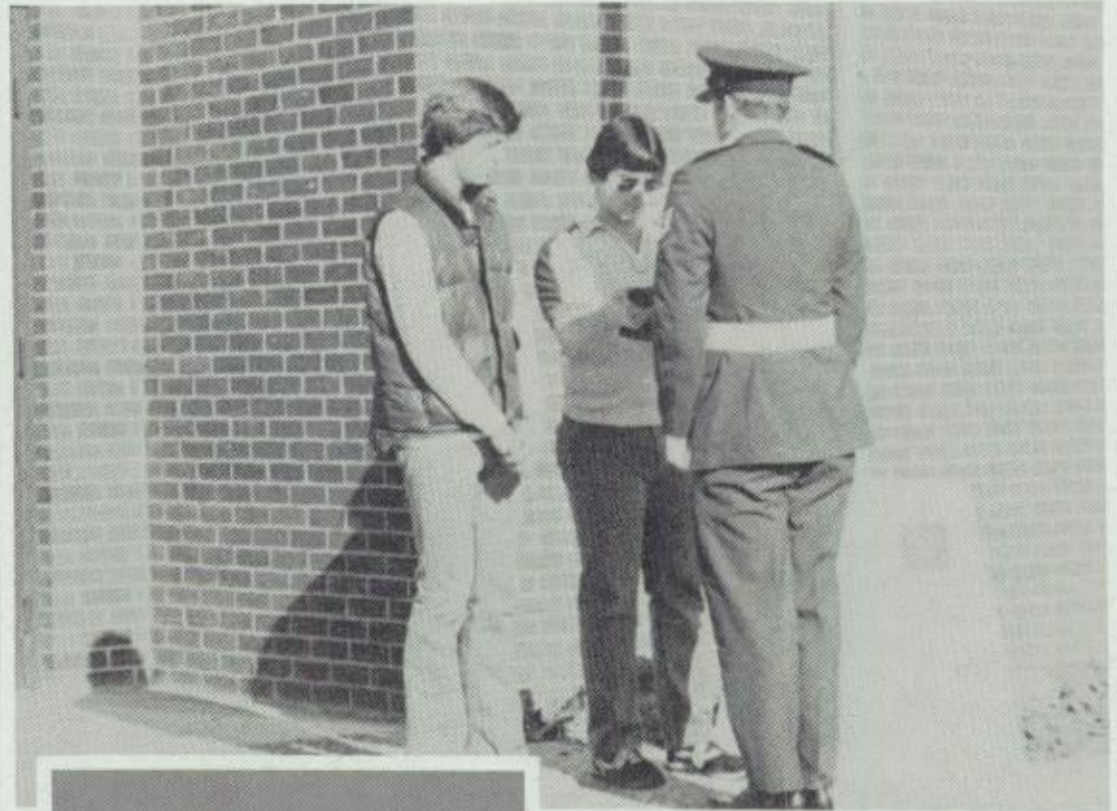

Although lacking in membership, The Drill team continued to bring spirit to athletic events.

Coach McElroy continued to spread Mustang spirit by again leading a successful basketball program.

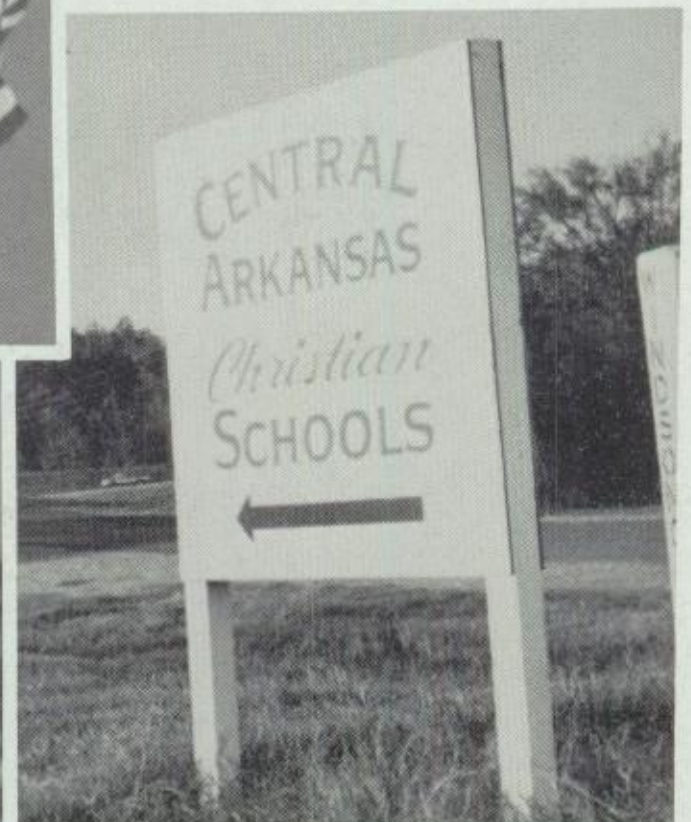

An honor guard from the Arkansas National Guard presented an American flag to CAC students. Patriotic pride and spirit are evident in every aspect of CAC student life.

For years and years the question has been pondered. Qualified professors dedicated their lives to solving the problem of what it is and how to get it. CAC students are blessed with an abundance of it. Just what is this mysterious quotient? School pride, national loyalty, and Christian philosophies are all part of this important element, spirit. Whether applying to school, community, or extra-curricular activities, it was essential to the success of the undertaken project. The scenes on these two pages depict some of the many ways the CAC student body is involved in spirit.

Cheerleaders are often overlooked for the great amount of spirit they bring to games and pep rallies. They are willing to suffer almost anything in order to get the student body fired up.

CAC parents continually show their Mustang spirit by giving unstintingly of their time and talents.

From the newly established and struggling girl's basketball team to the district-dominating boy's, Mustang athletes showed their spirit through their determination and dedication, and most of all, through their Christian attitudes and actions.

Fads & Fashions

In the good old days, it used to be that a young lady would use certain requirements such as money, good looks or social standing in her search for a future mate. These days, it seems to all depend on the number and style of stripes on a young man's tennis shoe, or what breed of animal adorns his clothing. While that statement may appear to be a little ludicrous, it's actually not as farfetched as it sounds. Fashions have played a major role for years in how people are judged, and that has increased greatly in recent years.

What does every well-dressed alligator wear on his polo shirts? A preppy, of course! Prep fashions were in style again for the third year in a row. Starting from the bottom, your average "prep" could have any of the following as footwear: loafers, boat shoes, Bass flats, moccasins, and the list goes on and on. Although the variety of footwear is endless, strict standards rule on the rest of the "prep's" clothing. Pants and skirts were generally of either an extremely neutral or an extremely outlandish color. Styling was conservative; a traditional look was best. For tops, a basic oxford shirt or Lacoste Izod shirt were generally worn. For colder wear, a Shetland wool sweater was combined in any number of ways to achieve the "preppy" look.

Western style was the other big look for the '81-'82 school year. Inspired by the movie "Urban Cowboy," the West became a big influence on CAC's clothing. Of course, a cowboy wears only one style of footwear: boots. Exotic materials were the deciding factor in which pair a CAC student would purchase. Ostrich skin, antelope, and anaconda are just a few examples of the outlandish makings of this season's cowboy boots. Jeans were the only acceptable rainment in the pants category. Traditional Western styling influenced all shirts worn by CAC's cowboys, with certain telltale factors evident on each one: mother of pearl buttons, elaborate stitchery. And, of course, no cowboy is complete without a hat; this season's offerings included anything from felt to beaver skin. No hat was complete, however, until a feather hatband and other adornments were purchased.

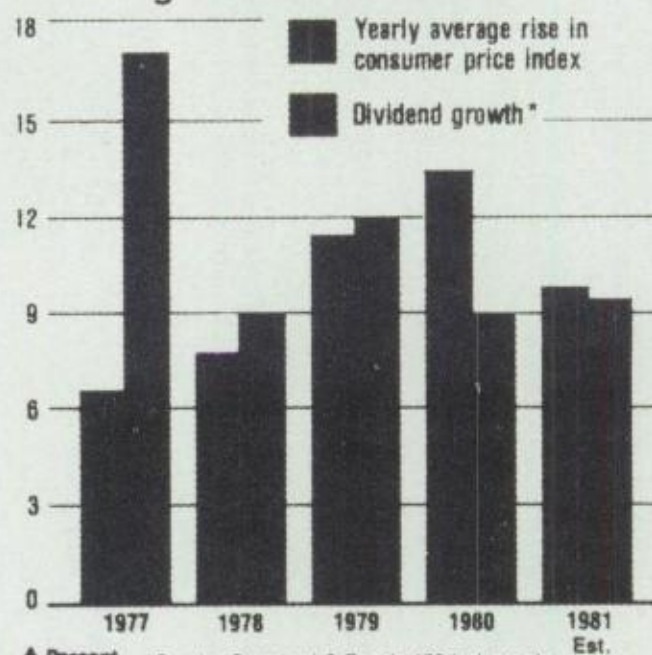

Only two styles are represented here: CAC students represented many styles and attitudes. One thing is for certain: no matter which style you chose, with today's inflationary clothing prices, you were certain to be out a lot of money.

Job/Economy

What do you do when the piggy bank runs dry? Although some can rely on generous parents and doting grandparents, the majority of CAC's student population had to rely on an outside source for their supplemental income. CAC students held a variety of jobs, ranging from babysitter to caretaker of a golf course. Some had to work from daylight to dark, or some set their own hours.

Girl's State/Boy's State is an excellent opportunity for students to learn leadership. CAC was fortunate last year to be able to send two seniors to each of the summer conventions. The conventions are molded on the aspects of state government, with the delegates divided into individual city and county governments. The delegates were encouraged to run for office. Kendall Hewitt was elected to the office of lieutenant governor, and all of the other delegates were elected to office also.

Delegates to Girl's State were Kim Wallis and Angela Fletcher.

If you've ever had an overdue book, or (horrors!) actually committed the unpardonable crime of losing one, then you're probably well-acquainted with CAC's two library assistants, Sheila Wood and Shelli Hallsell. These two girls have devoted much time and untold energy (and indescribable headaches) in order to make the library operations run a little smoother. Library assistants have been somewhat a tradition the past few years, but this year they were especially needed because of the illness of Mrs. Thomason, our librarian. In no way could we ever fully express our appreciation to these two girls.

Change is defined as the act of making or becoming different, modifying or transforming. It is an essential part of growth. Through the year of 1982, our school continued to grow; many changes became evident at C.A.C. The year brought many changes to the world around us, and it also affected the daily lives of C.A.C. students.

The student body returned from summer vacation to find that a long-awaited dream had finally been accomplished: the construction of Phase II of our building program. Not only did this provide much needed classroom space, but much more importantly, it gave C.A.C. students the first real cafeteria facilities that it has ever had.

Sixty bewildered seventh graders made their first discoveries of the realities of junior high life this year. The confusion and complications created by having six daily class changes were often compounded by older students' "helpful" instructions. Most seventh graders were quick to learn that geography class did not meet on the football field, it was not all right to walk to McDonald's for lunch, and if you're patient, before long you'll be eighth graders ready to dispense new information to flustered seventh graders.

Many of C.A.C.'s girls had to face an exciting and challenging change: girl's athletics. For most it was a totally new experience wrought with many frustrations and headaches. All who participated, however, were certain that they got back much more than they put in to it.

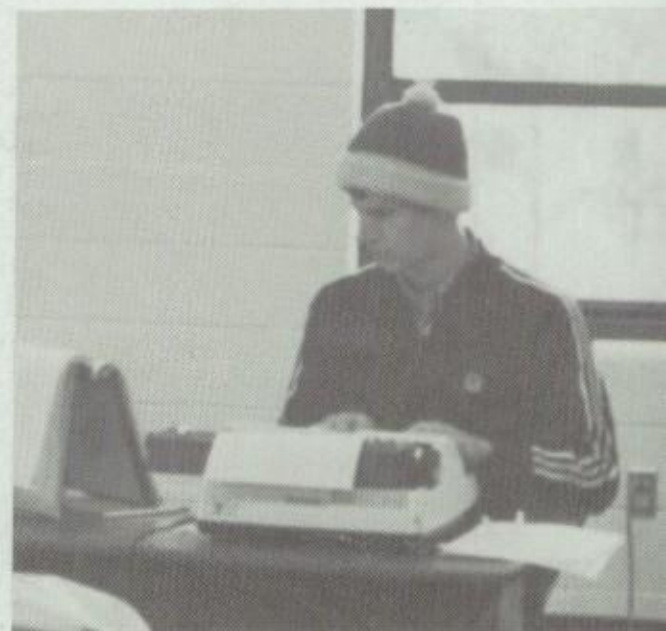

C.A.C. continued to grow and change as is typical of most similar institutions. The curriculum was expanded with the addition of a home economics department and several new course offerings. Most importantly, though, the entire attitude of the C.A.C. student body seemed to change. Several people made new commitments to Christ, and several renewed their old dedications.

It was a fantastic year, and the changes that we suffered and survived have now become memories. They helped prepare us, though, for the changes that we will encounter next year, and possibly, helped us to be able to face the many changes that we will find in life.

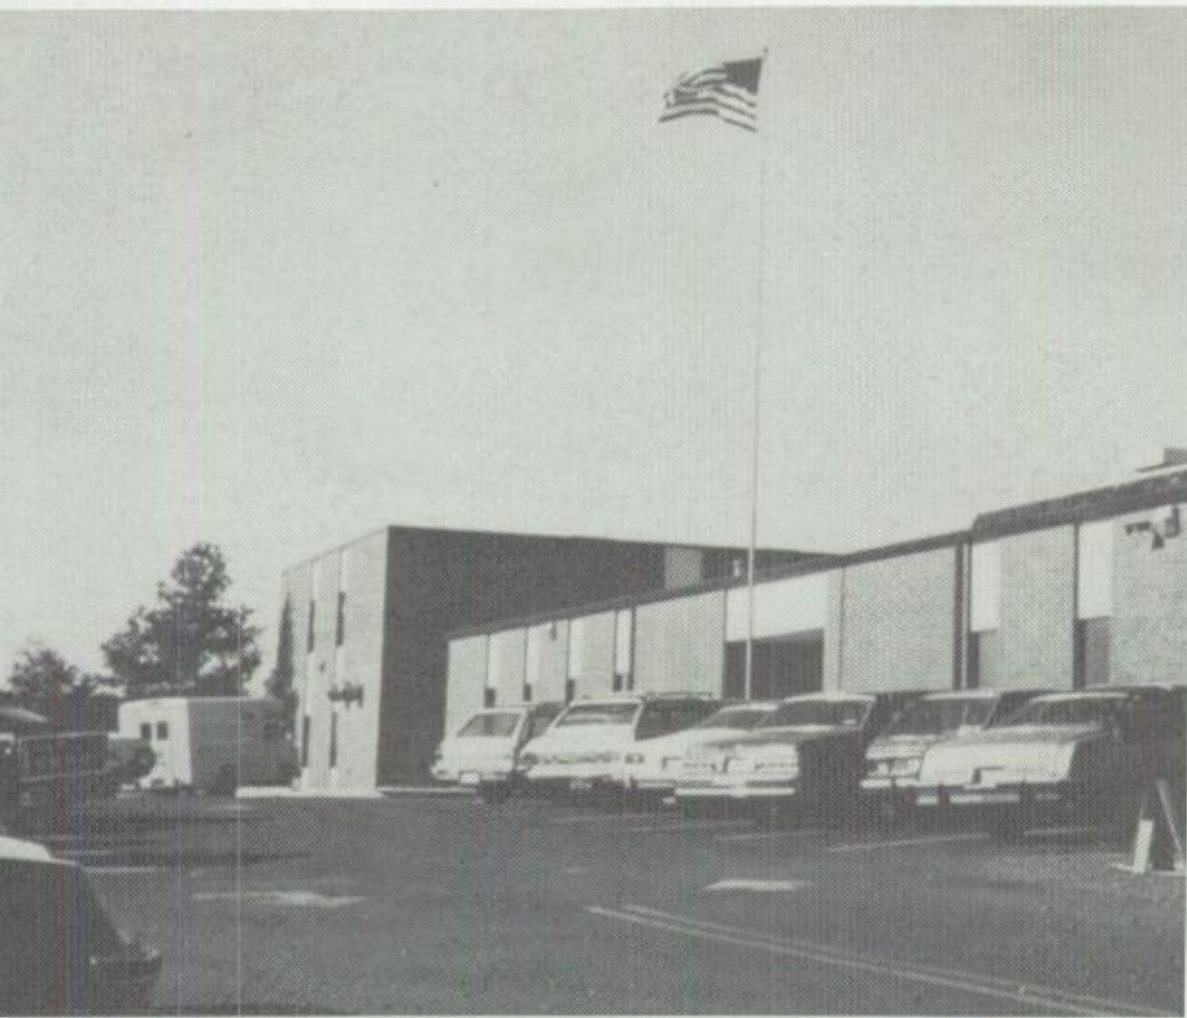

Phase II continued to develop over the summer.

Mrs. Stuart has been the sponsor of the Student Council for two years at C.A.C. Before she came to C.A.C., she was the sponsor for seven years at Shreveport Christian. As a result, C.A.C. has an experienced person for the job. Mrs. Stuart has always been interested in Student council. She became involved when the sponsor at Shreveport moved, and they were left without a sponsor. She volunteered and has been active in Student Council ever since. Mrs. Stuart would like the students of C.A.C. to become more active and involved in Student Council. She also wants the Student Council to develop good leadership. She is proud of the Student Council at C.A.C. She said that they have accomplished a lot this year. The fund-raising projects, which provide refreshments for parties, teacher appreciation, and workshops for the Student Council, were examples of this. Mrs. Stuart will be the sponsor of Student Council again next year. She wants to make it a good year for everybody. With her attitude, we know it will be!

The Typical Junior

When you become a junior, you've finally almost made it. Juniors can tell, after 5 years of waiting, the 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th graders what to do! It's wonderful.

Being a junior does carry a lot of responsibilities that include raising umpteen jillion dollars for the Junior-Senior Banquet. To do this, juniors have to do and sell just about everything.

The "Typical Junior" is very active; his usual day at school consists of:

- 8:36 - arrive at school
- 8:55 - get tardy slip
- 9:15 - go to class
- 9:50-11:37 - sleep and/or talk
- 11:45-12:15 - eat
- 12:15-12:45 - eat again
- 12:45- 3:20 - ask what happened that morning and/or sleep
- 3:20 - wake up and go home

AND THEN THE CYCLE STARTS OVER AGAIN!

Between PSAT - YZ - I23 tests and listening to speeches about the "benefits" of certain colleges a junior has a pretty good time. But it doesn't take long for a junior to "set his eyes on better and higher thoughts" ... BEING A SENIOR!

The Typical Sophomore

As you walk down the hall, you're sure to bump into a sophomore. They're easy to find. They usually walk down the hall with their nose in a book, because you really have to study to make a good grades during your sophomore year.

After being at the top of junior high as freshmen, they start all over again at the bottom of senior high as sophomores on their journey to the top. The year really starts to fly by when you're a sophomore, but there will be memories.

Insect collecting, dissecting, literature, geometry As you get older, you'll remember these things. Not all of the memories may be good! Well, you can't win them all.

One day you'll look back at the days you walked through the halls of CAC and say, "Well, school didn't seem that bad after all."

The Typical Freshman

If you walk down the halls, you'll probably come across many freshmen; they seem to be everywhere. They are a fun-loving group, always joking about something.

Because they're at the top of the ladder in Jr. High, freshmen excel in a lot of areas of school life. One of the main areas being sports, such as football, basketball, track, and cheer-leading.

The freshman's life isn't all fun and games, though. They do have a lot of responsibilities. The freshmen have to set a good example for the seventh and eighth graders, who look up to them. Then there's always studies. The classes seem to get harder and harder each year. Who can forget long hours trying to diagram sentences for English or struggling with Algebra to figure out why $x=y$?

All in all, the freshman year is an exciting one and one that will be long remembered.

The Typical Eighth Grader

Now that they are in their second year of junior high, eighth graders feel better adjusted. As a result of this, they usually make better grades. They don't think of themselves as "new" or out of place anymore; they feel like they belong.

Most of our eighth graders returned from summer vacation looking more grown up. Although the boys are usually still shorter than the girls, it doesn't stop the girls from liking them. Eighth grade is the age when girls start to experiment with make-up or try to find a hairstyle that suits them. Something that is common among a lot of eighth graders is braces. Some are just getting theirs, while others are looking forward to getting theirs taken off. Most eighth graders turn fourteen sometime during the school year, and the first thing that they do is to try and get their restricted driver's license. Some succeed and some don't.

All in all, eighth grade is a good year. You get to enjoy many school and class activities which you remember for a lifetime.

The Typical Seventh Grader

What are some of the qualities and characteristics typical of a seventh grader? To begin with, they are just like anyone else, except for the fact that they are beginning a new phase in their education. Having just completed the elementary course, they are now ready to begin junior high school.

Because they are new to junior high life, they are excited, and usually a little uneasy about things. They must adjust to an entirely new atmosphere. Once again, they find themselves at the bottom, moving up a ladder that will take them six years to complete. Most upper-classmen tend to look down on them, because they are only seventh graders. They seem to forget that they were once in the same position.

However, as time progresses, things become easier. They begin to take their place, and soon feel their importance. Most are also just entering their teens, and they are already looking ahead to bigger and better things that are coming their way. Although they are growing up, most still don't seem to take anything seriously. They probably compose the craziest bunch of students in school. But if this helps them make it through their first year, then why not! After all, the seventh grade can be one of the most enjoyable times spent in school. We hope that the typical seventh grader of 1982 will enjoy looking back on a new beginning at CAC.

Dear Students and Parents:

What makes a good school? Obviously, adequate facilities are needed, dedicated teachers and staff are a must, sound leadership from the board and administrators are important, involved and concerned parents are always an asset. But most of all, responsible and responsive students are the key ingredient to a good school.

This year has been marked by a depth of spirituality among you, the students, that has been unsurpassed during my experience as a Christian school administrator. Many have become Christians and begun that close walk with God. Others have renewed their dedication to serve Him, who created us all. There has been an atmosphere of openness about sharing the love of Jesus with one another which has been unparalleled in the history of Central Arkansas Christian.

This is a good school! Thanks board members, teachers, parents. Most of all, thanks to you, students, for giving me the opportunity to be a part of it.

Sincerely,
Bob Diles

Take A Good Close Look At Harding University

Upon a first arrival at Harding University, visitors often are impressed with the basic beauty of the tree-studded campus.

But the most lasting impression of Harding comes from a close look at the individuals — a student body of more than 3,000 (representing 47 states and 26 foreign countries) — each with his own personality, his own background and his own needs.

Among the many challenges at Harding in addition to the college's spiritual emphasis is that of learning to blend personalities. There is opportunity for those of common interests to combine their skills, whether in writing for the student newspaper, competing athletically, performing musically or learning the give and take of having a roommate.

Basic in the quest is the aim for a quality education. Harding's advance to university status has sharpened the route, with a qualified and experienced faculty eager to aid the student in his pursuit. In addition to offering academic assistance, professors often participate in ball games, invite students to their homes, serve as club sponsors and otherwise become involved in and out of the classroom.

The overall friendliness, determination, enthusiasm and excitement are catching. Students routinely become involved — in campus activities and community service projects, as well as in their studies.

Take a good, close look at what Harding University has to offer. We think you'll like what you see.

Quality education
where people really count.

A few short years ago we were so grateful for God's gift of a son, life's greatest joy.

To watch you develop into such a fine person — considerate and giving, always looking on the bright side, enjoying life — has been an additional blessing beyond measure.

As a person, as a son, we love you so very much!

LANCE OWENS

Alone I walked the ocean strand...
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name, the year, the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast...
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so I thought 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth for me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time; there will remain no more
Of me; my name...the name I bore...
Will leave no track, no trace.

And yet, with Him who counts the sands,
And holds the water in His hands,
I know the lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name.
Of all this mortal past has wrought
Of all this thinking soul has thought
Of all the fleeting moment's brought
For glory or for shame.

Lance, we love you and are proud of you. Our prayer is that God will always be first in your life. Dad, Mom, Amber
